

Henry Ford Community College gives “icy” thanks to Carhartt Inc. for ongoing support

Dearborn, Mich.—Henry Ford Community College (HFCC) gave a big, “icy” thanks to Carhartt Inc. for the company’s ongoing support in late December with ice carvings produced by the HFCC Ice Carving Club (<http://www.hfccice.com/>). HFCC Chef Richard Teeple, who serves as Club advisor, brought along several Ice Carving Club members to produce ice sculptures for the holiday season.

This is just a very small way for HFCC to give thanks to Carhartt for the numerous gifts the company has provided for students in the Ice Carving Club. Over the years, Carhartt has generously contributed outdoor wear for students and Club advisors to wear when working in the College freezers on projects, or at outdoor events, such as the Plymouth Ice Show, which takes place in Plymouth’s Kellogg Park Jan. 21-23.

The ice sculptures the HFCC Ice Carving Club produced went on display at the Carhartt Inc. corporate headquarters on Mercury Drive in Dearborn. According to Steve Carter, vice president of Corporate Sales for Carhartt, “everyone thoroughly enjoyed coming to work to see the sculptures! The folks in Customer Service loved them! Please let everyone know that we are proud to be associated with such a fine organization as Henry Ford Community College.”
